Before you go...

Things to bring:

- Change of clothes
- Soap, shampoo, bath and hand towel
- Entrance fee

Entrance Fee

High School & above	¥ 490
Junior High School	¥ 300
Elementary School	¥ 130
Younger than Elementary School	¥ 50

Note

- * You may rent or purchase soap, shampoo, bath towels, and hand towels at the bathhouse in case you forget something.
- * Remember to drink enough water before and after bathing. It depends on the person, but most people sweat about 600-900 ml during and after bathing.

SENTO Etiquette

The public bath is a place used by many people. It is not like the bath in your own home, and therefore certain rules apply.

- Remove all articles of clothing in the changing room before entering the bathing room.
- Take a shower before using the bath.
- No towels or other items in the bath.
- The bathing room and the bath are not for doing laundry.
- Dry yourself off before moving from the bathing room to the changing room.

Ishikawa Sento Ōkoku

Did you know...

Many of the first owners of sento were originally from Ishikawa prefecture. From the Edo period to the Meiji period, many people moved to the Kansai and Kanto areas to open sentos. There was an especially large number of people from Ishikawa operating sentos in Kyoto and Osaka. "Ishikawa Sento Ōkoku" means Ishikawa "Kingdom of Sento" to show respect to the first sento owners who established the sento culture. Even today, the sento is still a place of relaxation for local residents.

Japanese people value the close communication that can be developed in places like public bathhouses. Spending time in this relaxed atmosphere facilitates open communication and social bonding.

Scott Clark, Ph.D. in Anthropology

Hakusan & Nonoichi

Komatsu & Nomi

Ishikawa has many long bike routes with beautiful scenery. How about a hot bath after a long ride?

A relaxing bath after a hike through the woods on one of Hakusanroku's many hiking trails will really hit the spot.

Rest your muscles after a run around the lagoon in Kibagata Park or along the Sea of Japan.

Collect stamps at participating sentos. Fill up your stamp card and receive a free gift and a master certificate!

Stamp cards are available at each sento. There is no age limit, so children are welcome to join!
